

Political Polarization in Online News Consumption

- Data:
  - Browsing histories of 24k US based users.
  - Time spent browsing over 500 news sources.
- Results:
  - Clear polarization in news consumption.
  - Users spend significantly longer times on websites aligned with their political leaning.
  - Role of user choices in polarization: User choices are stronger signals of polarization.
- Authors:
  - Kiran Garimella (MIT), Robert West (EPFL), Tim Smith/Rebecca Weiss (Mozilla)