

Global Gender Differences in Wikipedia Readership

Isaac Johnson, Florian Lemmerich, Diego Sáez-Trumper, Robert West, Markus Strohmaier, Leila Zia

On any given day across Wikipedia:

67% of readers are men*

72% of pageviews come from men

*32% women and 1% non-binary

Varies by language: 54% of Romanian Wikipedia readers identify as men vs. 75% of Persian Wikipedia readers

Varies by country: for English Wikipedia, 64% of readers from the US identify as men vs. 76% of readers from India

Varies by topic: 60% of readers of Medicine-related articles identify as men vs. 83% of readers of Sports-related articles

Varies by subject gender: 61% of readers of biographies of women identify as men vs. 72% of readers of biographies of men